

Definition of Done

Group 5

February 2024

1 This should always apply before you push your code:

- Your code should be tested
- Your code should be reviewed by someone else
- Your code should have comments so people can review it
- Your code should be documented in the documentation
- Your code should always have type hints at every input variable and output variable of a function (you can also add it for variables but that is not strictly required)